SAN JOSE TO QUIT WESTERN COLLEGE LOOP

SAN JOSE, July 15.—UP—San Jose State College today announced its withdrawal from the Western College Loop.

Dr. W. T. MacQuarrie, president of the college, said that all the requirements of the conference were not sufficiently met.

It was understood that Dr. MacQuarrie, in moving to maintain high eligibility requirements, was determined to provide the college from a football school.

San Jose State in the last five years has won the conference football championship three times and tied twice for it. Numerous other school and prep football athletes were reported flocking to the school, Dr. MacQuarrie indicated that all were welcome, but must be prepared to study as well as compete in athletics.

The college has a two year contract with College of Pacific, Fresno State, and Nevada for football, and one year contracts with Chico and Cal Aggies, pending adequate football equipment next season. Games with Chico State, Whittier, Willamette and Stanford also have been scheduled.

The college is tired of having its conference tell it how to conduct athletics in the classroom," Dr. MacQuarrie said. "We are determined to set our own rules of eligibility, which will be better than the present conference standards."

San Jose State withdrew from the conference some years ago.

Speaking of Sports

Resorted to in a last desperate attempt to break deadlocks in the battles for the track title and for places on the National Speedway League team, several startling innovations in flat track motorcycle racing will be tried out for the first time at Emeryville Speedway Tuesday night, July 16.

The meet will be further marked by the appearance in the competition of 40 ranking daredevils of America and Australia, including five scratch riders, the largest field to go to the post in northern California.

Heading the innovation will be "rocked" races, a series of seven match races, so called because they are run off without a halt. Seven racers, riding three at a time with the pole man dropping out and a new man coming in at the end of each separate match race, take part in the series.

Official sanction for the event was received from the American Motorcycle Association after considerable wrangling. The association requested that "volunteers only" be entered. A score of volunteers, seven wild riding northerners have been selected.

Drastic changes also will be in evidence in the handicap events which will be increased to five laps. Many Wain of Syracuse, former champion, Corby Milne, reigning champion, Pete Coleman, his sensational protegee, Glen Mitchell and Bert Spencer of Australia comprise the scratch brigade. Coleman will meet his rival, San Arena, in an added duel.

TEN KILLED IN BLAST PORTSMOUTH, Germany, July 15.—UP—Ten miners were killed and 32 injured when an explosion wrecked the Adolf Hausmann coal mine in the suburb of Mengede today.

Unrestricted irrigation, the denuding of large forest areas and unchecked erosion were listed as causes of the impending shortage.

The bureau has just completed a survey of the situation as requested by several State legislatures.

A serious condition exists in the San Joaquin valley and in Southern California, the survey says, due to the uncontrolled use of water. Abandonment of many orchards and citrus groves and use of the land for dry farming may be necessary unless additional water becomes available.

The bureau indicated that 10,500,000 acres are seriously or moderately eroded. The bureau regards a million acres of land around the southern rim of the San Joaquin as practically ruined.

The bureau comments regarding the destruction of forests that some foresters have urged the acquisition of forest holdings by state and Federal governments, private enterprise cutting the trees under government supervision.

When the ship went down on May 7, 1915, with a loss of 1193 lives, including 115 Americans, she carried to the ocean floor jewels, gold bullion and currency locked in the purser's safe and variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to $15,000,000.

A double suicide theory was discarded.

Mrs. Thompson, also known as Mrs. Edwin F. Thompson, had been scheduled to proceed from Rome to Florence today preparatory to sailing for the United States on July 29.

She and Scott, a Briton, had been friendly for 10 days.

FOUND UNINJURED KINGMAN, Ariz., Tuesday, July 15.—UP—Major General George Leech, national commander of the National Guard, lost four hours in the Arizona desert when he parachuted from a burning airplane, was found early today by a sheepherder and was brought here safely. He was uninjured.

RIVERSIDE, July 15.—Two planes left here tonight following reports that Major General George E. Leech, National Commander of the National Guard, was lost somewhere near Holbrook, Ariz., after bailing out of a burning plane.

Captain Charles M. Cummings of Washington, D. C., who piloted the plane, landed safely and walked three miles to Holbrook, but was unable to discover any trace of his superior officer, dispatches said.

Officers at March Field said Captain Cummings, piloting General Leech here to inspect maneuvers of California, Utah and Nevada National Guards, reported the plane burst into flames due to an undetermined cause and both occupants were forced to take to parachutes.

He said General Leech apparently unhooked his parachute, yanking the ripcord but the two chutes drifted apart.

He was unable to see the other after he landed. He searched briefly then walked to town and started inquiries.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—UP—California is faced with a water shortage which may compel the abandonment of large areas of once-fertile land, the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of California warned today.

The bureau has just completed a survey of the situation as requested by several State legislatures.

TORRES TURNS DOWN FOOD FOR 10 DAYS

MARTINEZ, July 15.—Anacleto Torres, 33 year-old Mexican section hand of Port Costa, held on a charge he murdered Area Cabrera, 30, and central figure in an asserted "radio confession," has been starving himself since July 5 and has been transferred to the county hospital, Sheriff John A. Miller revealed today.

Although he lies rigidly in bed, his eyes closed and his arms stiffly at his side, Torres came to sudden life yesterday afternoon when an attempt was made to feed him by force and battled three strong men viciously, the sheriff and hospital attendants disclosed.

He is under constant observation of a doctor and nurse.

PARTAKES OF BREAD

Torres has eaten and drunk water but once since July 5, the sheriff said today. "At midnight July 12 he rose from his bed, secured bread and soaked it in water."

INSANITY PLEA PROBABLE

After being informed of Torres' refusal to eat, Attorney T. M. Carlson and Francis Collins visited him at the county hospital in the company of deputy sheriffs and prevailed upon him to drink two glasses of orange juice.

"I think he's insane," Carlson said after the visit.

Collins spoke to him in Mexican, explaining that the nurse attempting to feed him was his friend.

The attorneys said that Torres did not recognize them.

They intend to have a doctor examine him to determine his sanity.

Torres made no statement to Jailer Herb Logan of intent to go on a hunger strike. The jailer's first observation was that Torres was lying rigidly in bed. Attempts to talk to him were unavailing.

MAINTAINS SILENCE

He was kept under close surveillance but all attempts to talk to him were greeted by silence.

The prisoner was removed to the hospital Saturday afternoon. When an attempt was made yesterday to give him medicine, he snapped his jaws tight. Likewise, he resisted efforts to feed him.

Hospital attendants said that his condition shows signs of weakness he will be fed forcefully. Now, however, his pulse and heart are perfect.

"We will continue to keep Torres under closest scrutiny," the sheriff said.

Torres assertedly confessed he killed Cabrera on Memorial Day following a drinking party, saying Cabrera had taken $20. He said he shot Cabrera twice, crushed his skull with an axe and then dumped his body in the bay.

After his asserted confession he led deputy sheriffs to a hills cache near Port Costa where two guns were recovered, one of them allegedly being the murder weapon.

FISHERMEN HAVE BAD LUCK STREAK

A party composed of Sam Gibson, Ed Lane, Ed Wilkins, William Ingraham, Ben Johnson, W. O. Gruwell, O. W. Gruwell, Kenneth Exley and Carl Dougherty went fishing at Point San Pablo Sunday.

BETTER LUCK

Vincent De Martin did a little better, but not much. He was fishing for bass at Tracy and caught a catfish.

If those El Cerrito fishermen should go fishing for whales, one could reasonably expect them to return with a minnow or two.

WOMEN LABOR LAWS SCORED AT BPW MEET

SEATTLE, July 15.—UP—Special laws governing working conditions for women and limiting employment for married women were "protested" tonight by the national biennial convention of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"We protest laws or customs initiated by others to the economic disadvantage of our earning possibilities," said Mrs. Rosa E. Cunningham, Des Moines, Ia., national legislative chairman.

"We express our belief that every individual has an inherent right to work regardless of sex and regardless of marital status."

Mrs. Cunningham particularly flayed "muddled thinking" of the national economy act, which ousted many married women from federal positions. She stated it was a serious menace to the economic well being and advancement of women. America's 100 per cent of married women employed, she said, because of economic necessity, she said.

Hours and salaries fixed by law tend to "set women apart," Mrs. Cunningham said, 1,500 delegates to the convention.

"Labor laws for women are always introduced on the basis that the woman is the weaker sex and in need of special protection. An attitude strongly resented by thoughtful women, since the assumption is not supported by either scientific or biological fact, and is fostered only by groups who would for selfish ulterior motives, seek to close the economic door to women."

Such legislation, the speaker said, has limited activities of women so that "they cannot compete for equality of pay for equality of service, a principle to which this federation is committed. Equality of service is absolutely impossible with special laws for women."

Mrs. Cunningham demanded "a program that does not set up class or sex distinctions, that works rather for all humanity, so that every person will have an opportunity to work for a living according to his or her ability, under just and equal conditions."

Establishment of a "career system," such as that of England, is necessary if government in the United States is to reach its maximum efficiency. Miss Charles Ormond Williams, Washington, D. C., national first vice president of the federation, told delegates.

PUEBLO, Col.—UP—An unemployed man sauntered into a mortuary. He gazed at a high-priced casket with the words "at rest" inscribed on it. He turned to the undertaker. "Don't put those words on my casket," he directed. "I've been out of work so long that I'm all rested up."

MAHAN HUNTED IN SLAYING OF TWO OFFICERS

PUYALLUP, Wash., July 15.—UP—An unmasked desperado who may have been William Mahan, fugitive kidnaper of George Veyehausen, killed two Puyallup police officers after a bank hold-up today, abandoned the automobile he had stolen and was hunted in wheat field by 100 officers to night.

The man obtained $500 when he pointed a gun at Leslie Stone, cashier of the Orting, Wash., State bank. He fled toward Seattle.

Chief of Police Frank Chadwick, 37, and Policeman H. W. Storem, both of Puyallup, overtook the speeding car, passed it and attempted to halt the robber.

The man jammed on the brakes of his car and was in the road, firing his revolver, before it had stopped.

Chadwick was killed instantly when a bullet went through his heart. Another bullet caught Storem on the temple and he sprawled from the police car to the roadway.

The deadly marksman jumped in his automobile and sped on. The car was found later near the intersection of Zender street and Williams road in the outskirts of Puyallup. One tire was flat.

Traces of tall wheat bordered the road on both sides. Police believed the slayer had rushed into the grain, seeking to slip out unnoticed at a distant point.

Chadwick believed the slayer was Mahan, who was last seen by officers in Battle, Mont., in mid-June. He fled then, abandoning his automobile and $15,000 in Weyerhaeuser ransom bills.

Mahan is wanted for the robbing of five other Washington banks, including one at Eatonville, only a few miles from Orting, two years ago.

Stone described him as being about five feet 6 or 7 inches tall, light hair, wearing a dark cap and dark brown zipper jacket.

ALASKA GOLD MINE REOPENED AS STRIKE ENDS

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 15.—UP—The Alaskan Juneau gold mine, second largest in the world, reopened with activity today, with three shifts working previous ore rooms.

It was the first time since May that the mine worked at capacity, following a 30-day strike, the largest in Alaska history and the first one to involve about 100 in the territory.

About 100 union workers, who assertedly were responsible for a riotous June 15, were refused employment by mine owners.

Fifteen, charged with participating in the rioting, were bound over to the grand jury.

Scores were hurt, 10 of them seriously, when 150 benevolent union men endeavored to block a narrow street leading to the mine. It was necessary to use tear gas, clubs, fists and fire hose to clear the street and allow the workers to return to their jobs.

LIBERALS ASK TO TELL ALL IN LOBBY QUIZ

WASHINGTON, July 15. AP. A trotting corps of House Liberals today demanded the right to tell their version of secret meetings held to win support for the "death sentence" in the Wheeler-Reynolds bill before the rules committee and this place of its inquiry into lobbying on a times bill.

The investigation is to be resumed
tomorrow with Representative
Ralph O. Brewster, Republican,
Maine, testifying. Brewster charged that Thomas Corcoran, RPI attorney, sought to influence his vote on the holiday company measure. He will reply to statements made by other witnesses in connection with the incident and call members of his office staff to substantiate his story.

Chairman Burton K. Wheeler,
Democrat, Montana, of the Senate
Interstate Commerce committee, late today asked and received permission to appear before the House group tomorrow.

Wheeler's name was brought in to the case last week.
Chairman John O'Connor, Democrat, New York, had announced that Brewster's testimony would conclude the committee's investigation of all lobbying by administration agents in favor of the "death sentence."

He wants to turn to reports that the power interest mantained a costly lobby in a high-bonable downtown hotel and entertained lavishly as part of the campaign to beat the bill.

But Liberals want to be heard.
Sprinkled throughout the testimony of Brewster, Corcoran and Dr. Law-est Greening, director of the bureau of territories and insular possessions, has run the story of mysterious night sessions of government officials and congressmen seeking to jam the "death sentence" for "unnecessary" utilities holding companies through the House.

In preparation for the next phase of the inquiry, O'Connor has asked all members of Congress to give him data on the activities of power interest lobbyists. A Senate committee headed by Senator Hugo Black, Democrat, Alabama, conducting a similar inquiry, already has disclosed that one group of utilities representatives, the committee of public utility executives headed by Philip Gadsden of Philadelphia, already has spent over $200,000 to defeat the Wheeler-Rayburn bill and still has $50,000 left in its "war chest" to continue the fight.

Ice Refrigerator Sales Record Is Broken In June

An all-time record for the sale of air-conditioned ice refrigerators in Northern California was established during June. It was announced today at San Francisco headquarters of the California Association of Ice Industries.

The demand has been the greatest since engineers first succeeded in adapting the principle of air conditioning for perfect food preservation, according to C. K. Melrose, executive of the association.

In the territory served by 32
Northern California distributors of ice and ice refrigerators, sales were double the figure of a year ago, while total sales for the first six months of 1935 were 58 per cent ahead of last year.

Sales of other types of ice controlled cooling equipment are also on the increase, Melrose stated.
A growing demand has been noted from grocers, but her shops and delicatessens for ice-cooled display cases and commercial refrigerators, while the association's engineering staff has been swamped with orders for cooling and humidifying equipment for homes and business establishments throughout the state.

The low installation and operating costs, coupled with the natural efficiency of ice-controlled cooling equipment, have been responsible for the growing demand, Melrose said.

House Fly Should Be Sought Out in Chrysalis Stage and Exterminated

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

YESTERDAY we left the dangerous house fly in the pupa stage. This is a brown, more or less barrel-shaped object about one-fourth inch long. The existence in this stage depends on the temperature. In mid-summer it lasts only from three to six days, in cold weather it may last for five or six months.

When the fly emerges from the chrysalis stage, it is full grown, not a case of "a mighty fly from a little fly grows." A little fly does not become a big fly. In a short time its wings develop and it darts away on its mission of destruction. The time to destroy these creatures is before they are hatched.

The female does not lay her eggs except in fresh manure and fresh meats and vegetables. Not in old dry collections. Outdoor toilets should be covered each day with sand, dirt or lime. Half a pound of kerosene to ten gallons of water can be sprinkled over manure and garbage collections. Or if these are kept in the dark, there is less danger of the eggs being deposited.

The best and easiest way to prevent development is to pile the manure and garbage on a platform about a foot high, surrounded by a trough or moat containing water. Then when the maggots move to hunt for a place to turn to the larva stage, they fall in the water and drown. This is a simple, inexpensive and most effective method of the development of the fly.

Home-Made Fly Paper

A good, cheap, and non-poisonous fly paper can be made at home by adding five parts of castor oil to eight parts of powdered resin. Heat the mixture until the resin is entirely dissolved; it need not be brought to the boiling point. While still hot it is applied as thinly as possible to glazed paper. Strips of this are stretched across the room near the ceiling or hung on wires.

However, I always groan inside when I see strips of fly paper black with flies or a fly paper buzzing with the live creatures. The fact that they have been caught means that they have already done their mischief. It is better to keep the house clean so that food must be kept covered whenever a single fly is about.

They are particularly fond of milk and milk products. They like nothing better than a nice fat baby that has just been bottle. If they can only sit on the rubber nipple between times, they are happy flies.

Odors of any sort attract them and a small opening in the window or door screen is like a knot hole in the ball park fence to a small boy. Only that the fly is not satisfied with looking in; he follows his eye. If the baby drops his bottle, it must be cleaned before being returned to him. Children must never be allowed to eat food that has been dropped and picked up. Unless the screens are fly proof, keep the house somewhat darkened during the fly season. Especially, as the season wanes, kill every fly in order to curtail next year's crop.

A Few Answers

Answers to Inquiries: Mrs. H. S. complains that one knee suffers a sharp pain when she gets up after sitting awhile or when she first gets out of bed in the morning. The pain leaves quickly and the joint does not hurt when she walks.

The trouble is one of two things; either a nerve spasm and hurts when first moved, or more likely, she has a small piece of the cartilage of the joint chipped off. It slips between the two bones when the knee is bent or relaxed. Then as soon as she straightens out the knee, it slips out and causes no further trouble. In either case, the best treatment is to do nothing and hope that time will adjust the trouble. If it becomes very severe, the cartilage could be removed.

Mr. J. C. has had a patch on his lip for a long time. It develops a blister which opens, discharging a milky fluid and then a crust forms. This is suspicious of either a skin cancer or a tubercular ulcer. It should be examined by a specialist and if necessary treated by radium or X-ray.

Prune Caramel Candy
Do you like to make candy? Then perhaps you will find the following recipe worth trying. Remove the pits from prunes and run the prunes through a food chopper. Roll into balls. Dip into hot caramel and roll in chopped nuts.

Vigorous vs. Gentle
Did you know that vigorous cleaning once every few months is harder on the life of a rug than a gentle, thorough cleaning once a week.

Profiles For Today

Capt. Bartlett Enjoys His Career

By TALBOT LAKE

THERE are very few people who lack the yen to be an adventurer. It is therefore perfectly natural for us to feel very envious of Capt. Bob Bartlett, who was a member of Peary's North Pole party. He has dusted off his battered old ship, the Edie M. Morrissey, and has started for the west coast of Greenland, to root among the icebergs. The base will be the island of Disko.

About Capt. Bartlett is an air of enjoyment that few others appear to have. Eyrd's South Pole expedition was coldly (yet) scientific, while most airplane adventures, except Turner and Pangborn, adopt a grim, determined attitude who the actual business is at hand. Bartlett, however, has no other determination than to have his fun.

As he says: "I do love the sea as a dog loves its master who clings to it for the good of the house."

The vigorous expression means that, although he has been shipwrecked twelve times and had his ship crushed four times in the ice, he always comes back for more and likes it.

The North Pole incident is an indication of the kind of man he is. He certainly was a good sport when Henson, the Negro, got to the actual pole with Peary, while Captain Bob stayed back in camp. He conceded that Henson was a better dog driver and let it go at that.

To find how the Captain started on his career of adventure it is only necessary to talk with his Uncle Mose, white-bearded patriarch of Labrador. Uncle Mose explains that Bob's father gave him a schooner when he was seventeen, and that after this nothing more could be done with the young man—the sea got him.

Although Captain Bartlett is not given to lecturing or seeking publicity, he has written a few books. "Sails Over Ice" is the one concerning his own career.

Half-Pint Measure Best
When preserving berries or fruit use the standard half-pint measuring cup for all measurements. In the absence of the standard cup, be sure to measure both fruit and sugar in the same cup (as near half-pint size as is possible.)

Facial Masks Best Method To Tone Skin

By JACQUELINE HUNT

EVERY WOMAN wants to be glamorous in the summer-time. Perhaps her children have gone away to a summer camp and she is again a carefree, lovely companion to her husband, or perhaps she is young and romance is waiting on every side. The reason makes little difference—she wants to be a siren and she can!

One of the quickest ways of looking your best is to treat your skin with a mask. Masks are really kinds of magic that you can hardly do without, if you want to keep your skin fresh-looking, smooth and fair during the hot weather.

They are especially valuable for those of you who find that your skin takes a lovely tan when you expose yourself regularly, but becomes yellowish and splotchy when you do most of your living indoors for a few days.

Buy your mask, apply it, then remove it and a whole new face is revealed, glowing, clear and so soft that you can hardly find the little lines that you thought were appearing around your eyes and mouth.

There are many kinds of masks, but they all do essentially the same things, clear, soften and tone. Some are easier and pleasanter to use than others, however.

There are several brands of strawberry masks that you can use immediately before going to a special party. You simply cleanse your skin thoroughly, apply the creamy mixture and leave it on for twenty minutes. Remove with oil or cleansing cream and rinse with warm water and look in the mirror! Your skin will look so fine and clear and so fresh and smooth that you will hardly realize yourself.

Then there is the antiseptic rejuvenating cream, we've discussed before. Cleanse your skin thoroughly with your favorite cleansing cream, then apply a film of the earthy-smelling, brownish cream about the thickness of a silver dollar. Your skin will be so fresh and so clear and so soft that you will hardly realize yourself.

After your first feeling of alarm, you will find that the delicate sensation becomes pleasant. Leave the cream on the full time specified, then remove with two or three applications of cleansing cream and rinse the face with cool water or skin tonic. While I prefer using this at night, there is no reason why you cannot use it during the day and apply your make-up immediately afterward. Your skin will be so fresh and so smooth, and a few treatments will clear up many stubborn cases of acne. More about masks in tomorrow's column.

This year's June weddings demonstrated conclusively that thrifty brides chose not or novelty lace for their summer wedding finery. One wants a gown that will do service for more than a day, and while white satin may be worn later it is bound to be dated when worn by a young matron, while the white net, organdy or chiffon gown is not easy to identify.

There is a very frothy quality about the dinner and evening costumes presented for midsummer wear. This is partly due to the wholehearted endorsement of chiffons, but largely to the advocacy of pleats.

With all the fanfare for greater formality, rhinestone trimmings should bedeck evening fashions. Evening frocks of the midsummer showings, have begun to indicate this trend, with black frocks that were simple, unadorned, tailored things last year.

Just in passing, let me remind you that sandals have the floor again this season and that there is a growing feeling for Persian and Hindu patterns, whether heels are high, which is most often, or low, which is less usual, but newer.

Because the Italian Government sent an art exhibition to the United States, the Italian Government sent an art exhibition to the United States.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "I have very long eyelashes, but they are straight and scant. Can I train them to curl or make them thicker?"
ANSWER: Yes. The bride is privileged to dress formally, in white and veil, even when a wedding is conducted quietly and simply. Many girls getting married today, however, prefer to dress more in keeping with the bridegroom's informal attire. At this season, they would choose an attractive afternoon dress in some soft and becoming pastel shade with a hat to match. It is a matter of taste and either way is quite correct.

Water Lily Motif

Patou creates a gown of dignity and grace for the young matron. It is black chiffon printed with white water lilies underlined with red or green shadows. The front bodice drapery forms a scarf across the shoulders.

Brides Show Preference For Crispness of Cotton

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Brides and college fledglings show a preference for cotton, which is one of the most delightful aspects of summer. The freshness and crispness of one sort of cotton or another is a gladness sight just now, and one which evening fails to deprive us of, since it's smart and comfortable to dine in sheer cotton and to dance in it, too.

This year's June weddings demonstrated conclusively that thrifty brides chose not or novelty lace for their summer wedding finery. One wants a gown that will do service for more than a day, and while white satin may be worn later it is bound to be dated when worn by a young matron, while the white net, organdy or chiffon gown is not easy to identify.

Vegetables Can Be Fixed Novel Ways

By JUDITH WILSON

VEGETABLE plates are among the most interesting possibilities for something "different" in summer menus. Vegetables come in so many different colors, shapes, and flavors and lend themselves to such interesting methods of preparation, that you should serve them frequently.

Most homemakers like to find new combinations and new methods of preparing their vegetables, others prefer plain vegetables, cooked, buttered and seasoned and served together in groups of three or more kinds. Whichever opinion you share, I believe you will enjoy trying these recipes that are a little out of the ordinary.

DINNERS
Strawberry Cocktails
Vegetable Plate
Baked Stuffed Cucumbers

Curried Potatoes
Spicy Pickles and Radish Roses
Hot Biscuits
Jam
Fresh Peach Tarts

Deviled Eggs in Tomato Jelly
Baked Stuffed Eggplant, Baby Carrots in Butter, and Green Beans

Iced Coffee or Tea

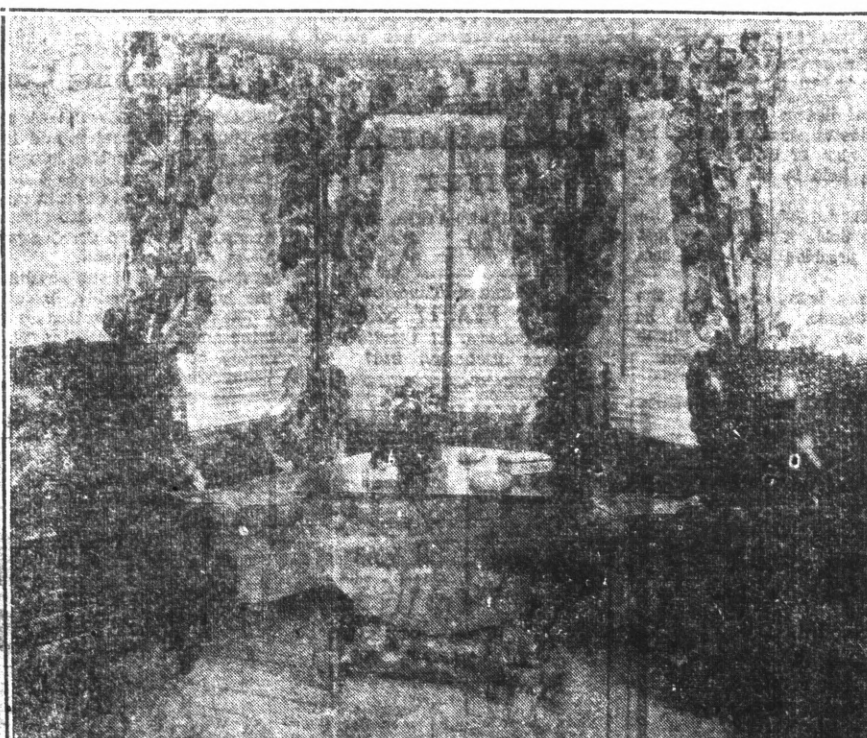

Stuffed Cucumbers
Peel and split medium-sized cucumbers and scoop out the seeds with the point of a spoon. For each four cucumbers halves, use one fresh tomato chopped, a tablespoon of chopped onion and one cup cooked rice. Mix and season with salt and two tablespoons melted butter. Fill the cucumber troughs with this mixture, lay in a buttered baking dish and bake about forty minutes or until the cucumbers are tender.

Glazed Carrots and Peas
Cut six medium-sized carrots into long strips and cook in boiling, salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain. Melt one-fourth cup butter in a skillet, add one-fourth cup granulated sugar and stir until dissolved. Add one tablespoon chopped mint leaves and the carrots. Cook until tender and glazed. Season freshly cooked peas with salt and pepper, serve surrounded by the minted carrot strips.

Prepare the eggplant by cutting off the top third and parboiling both sections in salted water until tender. Drain, hollow out the larger pieces leaving a rim about three-quarters of an inch thick. Dice the center section and the meat of the smaller piece and brown the cubes in one-fourth cup melted shortening in which three thin slices of parmesan have been fried. Add one cup minced, left-over meat, one-fourth cup bread crumbs, salt and cayenne to season well. Stuff the mixture into the hollowed eggplant. Place on a glass baking dish, sprinkle with crumbs and dot liberally with butter. Bake in a hot oven twenty-five minutes. This is good with fried or grilled slices of tomatoes if tomato is not used elsewhere in the menu.

A Few Words on the Washing Problem

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

EDWIN'S daily ablutions are attended to in haste, even when he has all morning to get washed in. For that is the way Edwin washes himself. Once a fellow has acquired the knack it is easy. You simply rub a cake of soap between the palms of the hands. If the soap has just been used, you don't even have to moisten your hands before-hand. The soap will come right off. Then you hold the hands under running water for a second preparatory for the finishing touch, a splash of water over the front of the face.

Edwin's mother is not the least bit amused. To her Edwin's manner of washing is neither boy-like nor cute. It is just a habit. Mother is right. Edwin is old enough to take better care of himself. He is nine. She is very strict with him, inspecting him carefully after each washing, and calling attention to the neglected points and parts before he attends to scrubbing them herself. But for all the good this training does, mother might as well undertake washing the boy herself to begin with.

Most boys of Edwin's age do not like to wash. They are like a great many artists who have been known to shun water and neglect their persons. They always have something more vitally interesting to do. And yet many learn to wash with care in spite of the fact that they don't like to do it. Edwin can learn too. His mother should continue the inspection. But instead of attending to the scrubbing finally, she should send the boy back to wash himself properly. If the second wash is a repetition of the first, send him back again. Keep it up until you are satisfied. Before the week is out, he should begin to realize that he could save himself a lot of unnecessary washing by attending to the job right the first time. But it may take longer, so try to be cool and patient.

Mrs. Goward's latest leaflet, "When Your Child Is Afraid," is now ready. If you want it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Afraid of Daughter

You must not be afraid of your daughter. She evidently has you cowed, which is, naturally, an absurd state of affairs. Talk plainly to her. Explain the situation frankly. Tell her that you have spent money on her education in order to fit her to be self-supporting. Until she has found employment it is not going to do her any harm to learn something about the intricacies of house-keeping. Involve her in your household routine. She may be disinterested at first, but if you work with her, showing her the way, she is bound, in time, to take some pride and interest in it. If you are a good cook, let her into some of your best secrets. She may never need to cook, but she will never find knowing how a burden.

You must not expect too much of anyone enjoying a new-found freedom. The girl is entitled to some relaxation and amusement, of course. If it could be managed that she has a free summer it will probably be better all right. Lighten your burden, but at the same time learning something useful and new to her.

There is evidently a lack of understanding between you. She may not really be aware of how difficult things have been because of the added expense of her schooling. She may not even realize that it is necessary for her to work for her living.

A Mistaken Kindness

It is mistaken kindness on your part to have kept her in ignorance of this fact. You must tell her at once and prepare for a serious and disheartening time of job-hunting—particularly for one who has had no particular training in any specific line. Why did you not give her some specialized course, since she appears to stand in need of it?

Parents should not shield their children from the financial status of the family. It is doing them a grave injustice to let them grow up thinking they have an inexhaustible source on which to draw. Your daughter has probably had an ample allowance and has no knowledge of any financial strain. You must make the situation clear to her at once. If she is the right sort she will be ready and willing to earn her independence. Most girls, even when not driven by need to do so, prefer to get themselves some sort of job. You must not feel sorry because your daughter has to work. It's those who cannot work, not those who do, that merit our sympathy.

Short Cuts

Left-over fruit juice is flat tasting. Add zest to it for next day's breakfast by adding a dash of lemon juice before serving.

You cannot brew a good cup of coffee in a stale smelling pot. The coffee pot should be washed separately from the other dishes. Use hot water and don't forget to air the pot from time to time, after washing.

were in the rear seat. A few miles from here, Otis McDaniels, Duncan reported, grabbed his revolver out of the car pocket where it had been placed. Dunlap slowed the car down and asked his prisoners not to shoot.

The appeal was in vain. The younger prisoner fired twice at the sheriff, one bullet striking him in the back of the head and the other in the arm.

As the car swerved and skidded to a stop, the two prisoners made Dunlap and Duncan alight. They disarmed the sheriff and took the key to the handcuffs and shackles. They removed the irons and jumped in the car and sped away.

Mrs. Gross Given Default Divorce

SALINAS, July 15.—UP—Mrs. Ray Nell Gross was today granted a default divorce from E. B. Gross, wealthy Monterey canon, following withdrawal of Gross's sensational cross-complaint charging Mrs. Gross with misconduct with Fred Schwabenland, Santa Cruz butcher. She charged extreme cruelty.

In the absence of Gross's lawyer, attorneys for Mrs. Gross had previously stipulated, and Superior Judge J. L. Atteridge accepted the stipulation, that the decree be granted only if Gross offered no testimony.

VIOLENCE IN MILL STRIKE IS RESUMED

SEATTLE, July 15.—UP—Disorders including the dynamiting of a sawmill tramway at Tacoma continued today throughout the Puget Sound lumber area, but more men were at work in sawmills and camps than at any time since the Northwest strike was called May 6.

Individual settlements of wage and hour demands were continuing between operators and either their plant employees or the Sawmill & Timber Workers Union.

TWO BLASTS
The entire industrial district of Tacoma was shaken by two dynamite blasts that wrecked a cable tower of the overhead tramway at the Wheeler-Osgood lumber mill, one of 14 Tacoma sawmills operating without union sanction under protection of National Guardsmen.

None was injured. The person who placed the blasts slipped through military sentries and a double guard of watchmen.

MILL REOPENS
Pieces of cement from the concrete support for the tower weighing 10 to 20 pounds were hurled for 30 feet or more.

Despite the damage, the mill reopened.

Four Everett lumber mills resumed operations for the first time since early May. Operators said 625 men returned to their jobs from a normal employment of 3,000—and more were expected tomorrow.

13 ARE JAILED
State police jailed 13 alleged agitators and one striker was injured in a scuffle with police. Crowds, composed chiefly of union men surrounded the mills but did not attempt to prevent strike-breakers from entering.

Three pickets alleged by police to be carrying blackjacks and clubs were arrested by Seattle officers at the Elliot Bay lumber mill.

FIRE HAZARDS
At Astoria, Ore., four logging concerns employing 400 men signed agreements with the union for 50 cents an hour minimum pay, with 10 to 15 cent increases in higher brackets, and recognition for union committees for collective bargaining. Men will return to work this week.

Several hundred loggers were to have been sent back to the woods from Portland, Ore., but only 100 returned because fire hazards prevented reopening of many camps.

Asks $5000 For Crash Injuries

MARTINEZ, July 15.—On behalf of his son, Ralph Stevens, an automobile collision injury suit asking $5,000 damages was begun today in superior court here by V. G. Stevens, county horticultural commissioner, against P. P. Little.

The action was filed by Attorneys Thomas M. Carlson and Robert Collins.

Stevens claims that on June 29, 1935, his son was riding in a car with him when a collision occurred on A street, Antioch, between his machine and one operated by Little.

Stevens asserts that his son suffered concussion of the brain, and his face was badly scarred.

In some department of the State government. If the department of finance can make no better showing in this instance, in which it confuses it did not know what it was doing, it seems high time to make a change there.

The blunder is going to be expensive as it will necessitate a special session within a few months. All indications pointed to the conclusion that every source of revenue had been tapped when the budget was finally enacted. Where the $24,000,000 is to come from will cause some thought on the part of the lawmakers, and the chances are considerable that the already over-laudered taxpayer.

PROPER ACTION

The attempt to take the control of the county hospital out of the hands of the Board of Supervisors was very properly frowned on by that body. We have had some very glaring examples of delegation of authority and the disastrous results thereof in the last year or so.

We elect the supervisors to attend to our county business and hold them responsible. If they fail in their duty, then our recourse is to recall them, but as long as they occupy their seats they should exercise the powers vested in them and not pass them along to other people.

Personally I am for these boards and commissions. Mr. Hoover, "commissioned" himself out of the picture, and our present national administration has set up an alphabetical hodgepodge that has made confusion worse confounded.

Every time I hear of a proposal for the appointment of a board I am reminded of the definition of it once given to me by a man who knew his way around politically. He said "a board is long, narrow and wooden."

Stanislaus Is First County To Oppose Ruling

SACRAMENTO, July 15.—UP—Stanislaus county officials today asked a reduction in the county's assessment ratio at the first of a series of hearings before the State board of equalization.

The hearings are to receive protests against the general plan of making all assessment rolls approximately 50 percent of the actual value of the property.

The Stanislaus group requested that their assessment ratio be left unchanged. The board has estimated the Stanislaus assessment to total only 29 percent of real value instead of the desired 50 percent.

E. K. Finney, chairman of the Stanislaus board of supervisors, said the equalization board's estimates had been made on high class property and failed to take into consideration land of lower value. If this were incorporated in the estimate, he said, Stanislaus assessments would represent more than half of the real value.

The matter was taken under consideration. Similar hearings for other counties will be held during this week.

WEBB HOLDS TAX LIMIT LAW INVALID

The attorney general's ruling on the Wright bill will be followed by a court test since the bill would not become law until 30 days after adjournment of the Legislature, the Board of Equalization need not face the question of its legality until September 18. But county and district tax rates would be made public by September 1.

Webb's opinion on the new initiative law is filed with board of equalization. It is a constitutional question, not an administrative one, he believes, to continue "the same limitation" on expenditures as was provided in the 1932 law, and that limitation exempted only revenue from cities from the expenditure limit.

The Wright bill seeks to apply the limitation only to money raised by property taxation.

James O'Brien Former Local Man Is Called

He was a member of the Richmond lodge of Elks.

VIOLENT ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS STIR BERLIN

BERLIN, July 15.—UP—Berlin's Broadway—the Kurfuerstendamm—was the scene of violent anti-Jewish demonstrations tonight.

Bush crowds gathered outside several cafes. Police reserves were called.

The riots marked a revival of anti-Jewish activity throughout the country. There were new efforts to prevent marriages of Jews and Aryans. Nazi youths placarded Jewish shops admonishing:

"Jews, Go Back To Judah!"

Crowds swarmed into Kurfuerstendamm cafes shouting:

"Perish Judah!"

Thrones attempted to enter the world famous Kurfuerstendamm restaurant. They were blocked by police. Several persons were beat in windows were smashed.

Police kept the crowd moving. The demonstrations, reportedly were inspired by the Swedish anti-Semitic film "Peterson and Bondor." During its showing Jews in the audience whistled and booed.

The anti-Nazi organ, discredited sharply the alleged "provocation."

Cameraman Is Questioned In Death Of Girl

HOLLYWOOD, July 15.—UP—A 360 pound film cameraman was questioned by police tonight, seeking to unravel the strange suicide of tiny blonde Julia Graham, film extra and former Sisterville, W. Va., choir singer, whose nude body was found crumpled before a mirror, shot through the temple.

Benjamin Reynolds, 44, ponderous companion of the dead girl, in whose home she apparently shot herself, was taken in custody by police for questioning.

He said she went to sleep in his bedroom the previous night. He was awakened when he heard the shot. The girl, entirely undressed, was lying on the floor, scarcely every Italian home in some form.

The girl shot herself, Reynolds said, with one of his pistols. It was revealed the girl, employed as an extra in the production of "Rose of the Rancho," had been taken off the set Saturday.

Reynolds, who reportedly is separated from his wife, brought the girl to his home Sunday night.

"She was drinking a good deal," he said, "and seemed to be in good humor. She began to worry about getting back to the studio for a 7:30 A.M. call."

"She said she was in no condition to go home and asked me if I could put her up in my home. I told her I wouldn't—that my wife was away."

"She insisted, however, and lying down on the couch, went to sleep immediately."

Reynolds said he went to his own bedroom, where he was awakened by the sound of a shot.
